“Many local municipalities offer free or reduced cost household Hazardous Waste (HHW) drop-off locations to their residence.” Check out protectyourwater.net and click on your municipality for more information.

- To see if a material is a HHW, look for words such as 'warning,' 'caution,' 'flammable,' 'toxic,' 'poison,' 'corrosive,' 'oxidizer,' etc. on the labels.
- If you have leftover, unwanted household materials that are hazardous, it is best to routinely take them to a local HHW collection if one is available.
- Never pour HHW into a storm drain or down a drain in your home.
- If a collection is not available, contact your trash hauler to see if there are special instructions for safely disposing of the material in the regular trash.
